County Clerk Files Suit Against Former Deputy

As an outcome of a suit filed against County Clerk Joseph H. Hartley, of Joliet, for an alleged shortage of $7,281.47, another suit has been filed against a former deputy in the county clerk's office.

Mr. Hartley deposited $7,281.47 last Tuesday afternoon after a suit for accounting, discovery and repayment of the alleged shortage was filed against him by State's Attorney John L. Pearce in behalf of the county.

Mr. Hartley in turn has filed suit against Samuel C. Bailey, 1263 N. Hickory street, Joliet, who the complaint avers worked for the county clerk from Dec. 2, 1946 until July 25 of this year. As part of his duties in the office, he was to receive, collect and deposit money paid into the county clerk's office, it is averred. During this time he is charged with misusing $7,281.47. Mr. Hartley states in the complaint that he has repaid the money to the funds of the office and is now attempting to be reimbursed.

Mr. Hartley's attorneys, Charles Robson and Charles Blinn have reported that numerous appointments for a conference with Mr. Bailey were made, but that Bailey failed to appear. Mr. Hartley in his suit seeks to have either Mr. Bailey or his surety repay the money, plus interest and court costs. It is averred in the complaint that Bailey's bond was made Dec. 12, 1946 with the Casualty Company for $4,000.

Mr. Bailey, it is reported, has denied taking any of the funds and maintained that he made deposits, banked and handled funds as directed by the county clerk.

The shortage in the county clerk's office was discovered in July thru the office of Herman Grassie, county auditor. Mr. Hartley said he became suspicious when there were no excess earnings for the half-year ending in June and requested the county auditor to make a check of his office.

Aged Woman Editor Taken by Death

Later the family moved to Eau Claire to provide better educational opportunities.

She married John C. Adams August 26, 1891 and a few years later moved to Peotone when they established the Peotone Vedette. On the death of her husband in 1931 she continued the publishing of the paper for several years which was quite a task for a woman of 74.

She sold the paper to Mr. G. Lee Russell, the present owner and publisher. Funeral services were held in Peotone Saturday, October 22 with burial in the Peotone cemetery.

The Builder — Greatest Creator of Real Wealth

If figures recently developed in Los Angeles apply nationally, then new home construction in 1949 will add $186,000,000 in new tax revenues to local governments everywhere. According to Arthur A. Beliveau, president, Home Builders Institute, the $300,000,000 of new homes built in Los Angeles County this year means $8,000,000 in new taxes just in that one community.

This is real wealth which the building industry adds to the nation's assets; wealth that will pay for schools, streets, parks, sanitation, lighting, police and fire protection and the host of civic services necessary to make living better in every community.

True, new homes make new services necessary but these privately built and privately owned homes pay their own way and, more, actually show a profit to the community by providing the money to make better services available to all.

I wonder whether those citizens who are in favor of public housing have thought of that? Public housing requires such services also, but it doesn't pay for them. To build public housing, the private home owner must first be taxed for the money to construct such housing and then taxed every year to pay for the civic facilities that public housing requires. Worse, public housing tends to discourage private enterprise from developing raw land and building homes for private ownership and thus creating the wealth from which our higher standard of living comes.

The builders of this country are one of the most important assets the nation has. They are the greatest creators of real wealth and the greatest contributors toward a higher standard of living. The new homes they build and the old homes they remodel* add many, many billions of lasting value to the nation's wealth. It has become fashionable to deride the building industry for its efforts while praising automobiles, television and other industries. Yet the wealth that builders create remains a community asset long after other manufactured goods have worn out or been discarded. It takes fully as much enterprise and initiative and involves probably more risk to build and sell homes than to make and sell other goods.

Of all people, the local politician should be the first to champion the private building industry and to fight against ideas which threaten its existence.

The golden flow of taxes which comes from the efforts of the private building industry is the main support of our local communities.

It is not understood by the public that remodeling also creates taxable wealth by adding to the value of the home. All over the country old, obsolete homes are restored to full taxable value by modernizing.

CIDER TRICKS— THESE ARE GOOD

The big apple harvest is sending jugs of fresh cider to local markets and roadside stands. It is tops for serving "as is" and can be turned into party fare for special occasions. Best of all, the price is in keeping with everyday pocketbooks.

Miss Grace Armstrong, nutritionist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture, suggests Hot Mulled Cider as a popular choice for cool fall evenings. To prepare it add 1-2 cups of brown sugar (approximately) to a quart of sweet cider. Tie the spices, 1/2 teaspoon allspice, a stick of cinnamon, 6 whole cloves—in a cheesecloth bag, and add to the cider. Simmer until the cider is spiced to taste—about 10 minutes. Serve piping hot with a dash of nutmeg.

Boiled Cider Applesauce topped with whipped cream is a favorite dessert in New England. Reduce 1 quart of cider one-half by boiling. Add to it 2 quarts of sliced apples and simmer one to two hours. If the cider is sour, add maple sugar or brown sugar to taste.

Sweet cider can be added to mincemeat, to apple butter, and to any number of meat and dessert sauces. Use your standard recipe for Raisin Sauce which you serve with ham. For the liquid use cider instead of water. Ham baked in cider is another favorite.

Cider also adds a good flavor to spice cake. Add it instead of milk and decrease the sugar in the recipe by 1/4 cup if the cider is extra sweet.

the following rules for you to follow for safe operation:

1. Stop the picker when it clogs. The snapping rolls are vicious, and you should never try to unclog them while they are rotating or in gear.
2. Keep guards in place. Manufacturers provide shields for power take-off shaft and exposed hazards that can be guarded.
3. Watch out for fires. Keep the manifold and exhaust on your tractor free from trash, repair leaky fuel lines, and never refuel your tractor while the motor is running.
4. Never oil the picker or make adjustments while it is in operation.

These simple things are easier than taking a trip to the hospital, paying doctor bills, going through life with a stump of a wrist for a hand, or trying to get a farm job done with an empty sleeve dangling uselessly.

The laying flock should be examined daily for signs of infection.

To Investigate Road Side Advertising

Federal funds for making surveys of highway encroachments are being obtained by several state highway departments, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club.

Mr. Hayes says, "It has been found that billboards and other businesses have in some instances moved over to the right of way, itself. Heavy traffic obviously cannot move in safety and easily if it is obstructed every few feet with vehicles entering and leaving highly traveled routes. Illinois has adequate legal authority to control highway access."

The roadside protection program suggested by the Motor Club is part of the highway modernization program initiated by the organization several months since. The club president says that exercise of the control of access will control placement of roadside establishments such as gasoline service stations, restaurants and taverns, both with regard to location and design.

Comprehensive surveys of conditions are essential, he says, if we are to determine a factual basis for reform. Such surveys provide an inventory and classification of roadside uses and structures. The location and design of driveways is noted.

An important phase of the survey is the determining of the size, location and nature of advertising structures. Not infrequently it has been found that advertising structures are a decided hazard because of colored lights, red or green, or the intermittent flashing of signs.

A paved feedlot soon pays for itself in manure saved. It also pays a profit in feed saved, in faster gains, and in the comfort and cleanness of the cattle.

J. L. Sullivan Heads Nat'l Conference of Christians and Jews

The appointment of John L. Sullivan, former secretary of the Navy as general chairman of Brotherhood Week for 1950, has just been announced by Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Brotherhood Week observances on a nation-wide basis are held each year during the week of Washington's birthday. Its next observance will be held February 19-26.

In accepting the post, Mr. Sullivan said that "the big question today is whether the human spirit will remain free or whether it is to be enslaved by totalitarianism."

"The dignity of man is on trial throughout the world," he continued, "and the fate of our civilization may well depend upon the outcome. It will survive only if the ideal of man's inalienable rights is acknowledged, respected and strengthened."

"It is for these reasons that I am happy to accept the general chairmanship of the forthcoming Brotherhood Week observance," sponsored by the members of the three great religious faiths of our country, joined together in the National Conference of Christians and Jews."

Mr. Sullivan will be in Chicago December 5 to address local Brotherhood Week chairmen, civic leaders, educators and clergy.

Will County Leads—

Will County farmers are quite disappointed as they start their 1949 corn harvest. Corn borer damage is much more severe in some fields than even a stretch of the inagination would dream about earlier in the season. About a month ago, several folks indicated that there probably would be a 10 per cent loss in corn.

University entomologists have recently completed a check on the number of corn borers now in corn stalks and which are expected to over-winter in corn stalks and the results indicate that Will County leads the state—unfortunately. A check in several parts of the county by University folks indicates an average of ten borers per stalk.
This may or may not be an indication as to the corn borer anticipated damage for 1950.

One University entomologist said that he was sure than on an average, Will County lost from 15 to 20 percent of their corn to this pest this year.

If the 15 percent estimated damage is correct, it means that Will County farmers lost totally this year, approximately 1,300,000 bushels. If the possible 20 percent estimated damage is correct, it would mean that the corn borer took in Will County this year approximately 1,800,000 bushels of corn.

Saying it another way, if this lost corn were put under Government loan at $1.40 per bushel this would mean that the corn borer took from Will County farmers between $1,820,000.00 and $2,520,000.00 this year. Astounding, but probably true.

In addition to the terrific financial loss, corn stalks have been weakened and many are falling to the ground every day. Ears in some cases, are falling to the ground.
This probably means a record number of bushels per acre to be left by corn pickers and added work to the farmers in picking up dropped corn.

October report estimates are lower than a month ago and indications are now that this year's crop will equal last year's record crop.
This article, prepared by the Farm Bureau office, is not intended in any way to scare farmers concerning 1950 corn acreages, but it is pointed out that farm practices and weather will determine the amount of damage to be done in 1950.

The reason for the big increase is the early planting of corn (10-15 percent of the acreage) which made possible a high successful second generation population. With out a big first generation a heavy second generation is unlikely.

University folks point out that clean plowing of corn stalks will help to control borers and should be practiced throughout the county. Individual farmers can lessen the damage on their own farms by avoiding early and late planting, by planting adopted hybrids, and by the proper use of insecticides. H.
B. Petty pointed out to Farm Advisers this last week that DDT applied at the rate of 1½ pounds per acre has given very good control this year. Experiments were conducted on 29 farms in various parts of the state and proper application of DDT gave an average control of 65.6 percent of the borer and treated corn, on an average, yielded a good eight bushels more per acre than untreated corn.

Petty says that farmers will undoubtedly be quite willing to follow recommendations in 1950.

Choose The Best!

Lesson for October 30, 1949

IT HURT Isaiah's patriotism, and his religion too, to see how fast his country was going down hill.

Most of the troubles Isaiah saw are with us today. Wealthy women spending more and more on themselves; leaders who are irresponsible, self-seeking and in-competent; poverty unprevented and uncared-for; drunkenness high and low. Isaiah, and other prophets as well, saw in the sin and drunkenness of the times the sign and symbol of national decay. To the careless, the selfish and the wild, to those who were "leaders" but were leading in the wrong direction, Isaiah kept saying, in many different ways, Choose the best!

The Prophets' Successors THERE WAS A TIME when the church put most of her preaching emphasis on individual religion:
Get right with God! was the cry.
The church of today has not by any means given up her emphasis on personal religion, but we are learning from the prophets what social righteousness means. The church in our time is the logical and actual successor to the prophet's work.

The church is doing more than ever to awaken the conscience of society, in fact the church itself has a duty to be the conscience of society. One of the problems about which our nation needs to be waked up is one that Isaiah and Jeremiah faced, only we have it in a more desperate form.

We call it alcoholism; they called it by an uglier, more suitable word: drunkenness. Even in those days drinking was a problem; it cut down the national health, wealth and wisdom. Nowadays it is worse because of two factors. One is the higher percentage of alcohol in beverages such as whiskey, unknown in those days. The other factor is advertising.

Where Drunkards Start AGAINST ALL THIS the church must keep saying and persuading people, Choose the Best! But it does comparatively little good to say this to the confirmed alcoholic.
It makes more sense to say it to young people. For the sad feature of alcoholism is that it begins in the high schools.

The Yale School of Alcohol Studies has collected evidence indicating that two-thirds of all alcoholics begin drinking habits in the early high school years.

A recent Gallup poll shows the greatest percentage of drunkards to be in the age group 21 to 39. Today, it is estimated, there are four million alcohol addicts or excessive drinkers who are in more or less constant trouble with their families and employers.

Drunkness costs industry in America no less than one billion dollars a year, and has a lot to do with the break-up of homes and with crime generally.

Allied Youth
SOMETHING is being done to stop this, which you should know about. There is a movement known as Allied Youth, a national educational organization working in high schools all over the country.
Its work is positive, not negative.
It is not trying to pass laws or to bring back prohibition. What it does try to do—and it is succeeding remarkably well in many places—is to give young people a way of life that will enable them to meet social pressure for drinking without loss of "face." Every Allied Youth post in a school has three aims: 1. To meet the social and recreational needs of young people.

Every New Year's Eve, for instance, when millions of Americans are getting sickly drunk, more than 6,000 young people gather in Detroit for the biggest dry party in America, sponsored by Allied Youth.

2. To establish within the school a fellowship of young people who do not think it is necessary to drink to be smart. Such a group can change the attitude of an entire school.

3. To build a solid foundation of education for total abstinence. Essentially, Allied Youth is saying to young people everywhere, "Choose the Best!"

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Now They're Sitting Pretty
Squint Miller, who's working as a telephone lineman, was telling me about some birds that got into a fight with his company.
Seems a couple of woodpeckers set up housekeeping in a telephone pole. Nobody minded them living there, but they kept pecking at the wires—causing one short circuit after another.
Finally, the telephone people—who had nothing personal against the birds—just stopped up the hole where they lived. But they kept coming back. At last, the company donated that pole to the woodpeckers and set up a brand-new one for their own use!

From where I sit, we'd all be better off if we were as tolerant with our own kind as that telephone outfit was with the woodpeckers. Let's consider the other fellow's point of view—whether it's his right to live where he wants, or to enjoy a friendly glass of temperate beer or ale when and if he pleases.

DAIRYMEN URGED TO JOIN DHIA

According to Chris Madsen of Lockport, tester in Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 2, he has at the present time, room for nine more cooperators in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association project.

This project, sponsored jointly by the University of Illinois and the local Farm Bureau, is one which not only enables co-operators to find out what their production records are for each individual cow in the herd (both butterfat and milk) but also enables them to secure feed costs records for their herd. With this information the tester is able to advise cooperators relative to cows which should be culled from the herd.

Mr. Madsen states that he also can take care of approximately fifteen more cooperators in the owner-sampler dairy testing program in his association. This program is an excellent one too, although it does not take into consideration the feed costs of the herd. However, it does enable the dairyman to determine for each cow in the herd the total pounds of butterfat and milk produced each month. Mr. Madsen states that since the owner-sampler that twenty cows have already been program was started last spring weeded out of herds he is supervising. These cows were not "paying their way."

This, of course, is one of the primary aims of both projects, namely to show the cooperators which cows are making the profit. In many cases, cows owned by co-operators who thought they were the best one in the herd have been found to actually be losing money.

Elmo Saarela, DHIA tester in Association No. 1, indicates that he also can handle a few more co-operators in the owner-sampler testing service.

Anyone desiring more information on either the DHIA or owner-sampler dairy projects should contact the Farm Bureau office or either of the two above mentioned men.

INVENTIONS that SERVE YOU
During the years from 1843 to the late 1860s there was feverish activity among inventors in the United States and abroad to devise the first practical writing machine. It was Christopher Latham Sholes of Milwaukee, Wis., who first came through with a machine that he named a typewriter. Principles of that original machine which he patented in 1868 are basic in the modern typewriter. Before the typewriter few women were employed in business offices.

Mrs. Marvel Siefert Former Frankfort Woman Died Oct. 24

Frankfort friends were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Marvel Siefert, wife of Dr. F. W. Siefert, former Frankfort veterinarian. Shortly after the birth of their son Dale two years ago, Mrs. Siefert underwent surgery in the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago. At that time Dr. Siefert left Frankfort and went with his wife to her sister's home in Grand Rapids, Mich. When her health improved he accepted the position as veterinarian at Mt. Carroll, Ill., where they have been located since. Two weeks ago she entered the Chicago hospital and underwent two other operations. She passed away Monday, October 24. She was born in Watika 25 years ago and united in marriage with Dr. Siefert in November, 1944. Surviving beside her husband and young son, are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Howland of Watika, Okla., four sisters and four brothers. Funeral services will be held in the Sherm Thomas funeral home in Watika, Saturday, October 29. Dr. Siefert is most grateful to all the many friends in Frankfort who donated blood during the past two weeks and to all who have helped him in so many ways and for their sympathy.

Golden Jubilee For Stock Show

All roads will lead to Chicago November 26 when the 50th anniversary edition of the International Live Stock Exposition opens for an eight-day run in the amphitheatre of the Chicago Stock Yards.

The Exposition, often called "the show window of the livestock industry," will this year offer greatly increased prizes to mark the occasion of its 50th birthday. Premiums will be far in excess of the usual $100,000.

Cattle classes alone for all of the three beef breeds will offer exhibitors $60,000. Increased prizes are also scheduled for sheep, and swine. Sterling silver trophies, commemorating the golden anniversary, will be given champion winners in all departments. The International management predicts that the event this year will attract the biggest entry in the history of the show, and the amphitheatre and the yards should bulge with examples of the continent's best livestock and crops.

The International is considered by stockmen and farmer as the high court among all such events where final decisions in matters of livestock are made.

Its results are watched throughout the world as leading the way in trends of agricultural production. Through the years, its effects have greatly enhanced the world's abundance of food for the benefit of mankind.

The Junior Livestock Feeding contest for farm boys and girls who feed fat cattle, swine and sheep will again assume its prominent place on the first day's program.

The 27th International Grain and Hay show will bring crops samples from all Canadian provinces and most of the states to this famous competition for crop growers.

The International Horse show will provide entertainment eight evening and five matinee performances. The cutting contests for Quarter Horses, which proved such a popular feature last year, are again scheduled.

Entries for all livestock classes except carlots close November 1. Carlot entries close November 21, and registration for the grain and hay show will be accepted to November 10.

PATENT QUIZ

Q. What is the best way to prepare an application for patent?
A. As the preparation of an application is a highly complex proceeding, it generally cannot be conducted properly except by an attorney trained in this specialized practice. The Patent Office therefore advises inventors to employ a competent patent attorney or agent who is registered in the Patent Office. No attorney or agent not registered in the Patent Office may prosecute applications.
